Old Fashioned promotion here reaches final stage

Everyone was happy with the rain that started Friday evening, although the merchants and put-it-off bargain hunters were disappointed because they felt it could have waited a few more hours.

It was not a heavy downpour, but it was enough to put a crimp in the last day of the four Old Fashioned Bargain Days and the sponsor, the Downtown Merchants Association of the Chamber of Commerce gave no indication at 9 a.m. of calling anything off; undaunted, the merchants and the sponsoring committee had preparations for another big day in high gear early.

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club's ice cream social on the Courthouse lawn had just about reached the cleanup stage about 8 p.m. when the rain started. It wasn't the light shower so much as the wind (and dark clouds) that accompanied it that irked the Kiwanians. However, more than 700 were served about 50 gallons of ice cream and homemade cake. The club may clear $200, the committee said, for the boys and girls program.

The weather failed to put a damper on Saturday's Old Fashioned Bargain Days festivities, and the sponsor, the Downtown Merchants Association of the Chamber of Commerce gave no indication at 9 a.m. of calling anything off; undaunted, the merchants and the sponsoring committee had preparations for another big day in high gear early.

AFTER ALL, three sunny days out of four is a pretty good average, considering the fickleness of the weather.

Preparations for the sidewalk sales, which packed the central business district Friday, were moving ahead Saturday morning. Bargain hunters were increasing steadily and undoubtedly will crowd the sidewalks again before the day is over — unless the weather interferes.

The first of the more than 250 antique and classic cars expected for the show on nearly three blocks of Main Street began arriving before 9 a.m., the time set for registration.

The AAUW Book Fair was ready to open on schedule on the west side of Main Street. Although out of the area of activities, there was a sale of old books (in small bundles) on the sidewalk in front of the Carnegie Public Library.

Barbecued beef sandwiches will be served all day in the Courthouse area and at the barbecue tent on the parking lot at the Fayette-Market Street intersection by the Washington C.H. Shrine Club.

As during the first day of sidewalk sales Friday, the clerks were in old fashioned costumes; Saturday they were joined by more than a few customers; for there will be a costume contest for the clerks at 4 p.m. on the Courthouse lawn and one for the customers at 4:30 p.m. Awards of $15, $10 and $5 have been put up by the sponsors.

As the four Old Fashioned Bargain Days approached the end Saturday, both the merchants and budget-minded customers were happy. People came here from over a wide area to take advantage of the bargains offered in the stores and on the sidewalks.

GREEN THUMB — Mrs. Ed Hidy, 325 Rose Ave., shows her many plants to two sidewalk customers who came around Thursday to see what the Farmer's Market on Main Street was all about. Mrs. Hidy's hobbies are growing plants (she started the ones at the Farmer's Market in March) and sewing. There were 16 display areas against the retaining wall on Main Street.

Third hostage released from library in prison

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — State prison officials were hopeful that a convict might release the remaining 12 hostages of a group he has held in the prison library for 10 days.

Negotiations between prison officials and convict Fred Gomez Carrasco resulted in the release of librarian Linda Woodman Friday evening.

She was the third hostage to be released. Two others were released after they suffered heart attacks and an inmate hostage escaped by hurling himself through a glass door.

"We are hopeful that the ongoing negotiations will result in the release of the balance of the hostages," Ron Taylor, director of information of the Texas Department of Corrections, said Friday night.

Miss Woodman, 44, was released to "convey a personal explanation of Mr. Carrasco's proposals relating to the mechanics of hostage release," Taylor said. However, he declined to specify what proposals Carrasco offered.

White House aides nix censure move

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shunning a move to censure rather than impeach President Nixon, White House aides are portraying the proceeding in the House of Representatives as a political struggle, with President Nixon in the role of the underdog.

Republicans on Friday introduced in the House a resolution offering an alternative to a full-fledged impeachment proceeding. It would censure Nixon for "maladministration and moral insensitivity" but not call for his removal from office.

White House spokesmen had no formal comment on the resolution introduced by Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., and signed by House GOP leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona.

While urging that the House be given such an alternative, Rhodes himself took no stand for or against censure. He scheduled a news conference for Monday to announce his position on impeachment.

White House spokesman Gerald L. Warren, talking with newsmen before presentation of the resolution, for the first time described impeachment as "a political struggle."

"We recognize the situation as it exists in the House ... we face an up-hill struggle," Warren said. He later added that while he was not conceding the House would impeach Nixon, "if you had to make odds ... you would have to place the President in the role of the underdog."

Warren's reference to the proceeding as political marked an apparent shift in White House strategy. Previously, he and other spokesmen have stressed the legal aspects of the proceeding and contended that the evidence would vindicate Nixon.

The spokesman described Nixon as "in very good spirits" and said he is spending much of his time reviewing tapes and other materials being turned over to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica as ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court last week.

In Sirica's courtroom on Friday, White House lawyers were ordered to turn over Nixon's notes about subpoenaed Watergate conversations by Wednesday.

Sirica set the deadline after pressing the White House to speed the delivery of tapes and materials of 64 conversations and related documents subpoenaed for the Watergate coverup trial.

Meanwhile, Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said he will ask the Senate to subpoena the tapes and materials of the 64 conversations if the Senate conducts a presidential impeachment trial.

House Speaker Carl Albert indicated opposition to censure, saying "I'm certainly not recommending it. I would not vote to censure the President. I would either vote for or against the (impeachment) resolution."

House panel OKs tax reform bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tax-reform package designed to sprinkle benefits among taxpayers and to assure at least minimal tax payments from the wealthy has passed a key House panel.

And before giving tentative approval to the wide-ranging tax reform measure Friday, the House Ways and Means Committee combined the bill with the so-called energy tax reform bill after a warning that a Congress preoccupied with impeachment would more readily pass one tax bill than deal with two separate measures.

The biggest proposed benefit to the average taxpayer is the provision to boost the maximum standard deduction to $2,500 from $2,000, and to hike the minimum standard deduction to $1,400 from $1,300 on single returns and to $1,500 on joint returns.

The new minimum tax rate proposed by the committee would impose a 14 per cent levy on the first $50,000, 17 per cent between $50,000 and $100,000, and 20 per cent thereafter. The experts estimate this would affect some 187,000 tax returns.

To sweeten the burden for upper-income citizens, the panel proposed a slight decrease in the maximum capital gains tax rate, dropping it to 35 per cent from the present ceiling of 36.5 per cent.

The combination of hikes and cuts in tax levies was expected to produce a net revenue gain of $500 million annually, based on changes that would increase some taxes by $7 billion and decrease other taxes by $6.5 billion.

One of the major ingredients in the tax-hike side was the last-minute amendment that accelerates the previously-approved plan to phase out the controversial petroleum depletion allowance. The depletion tax break presently saves oilmen between $2 billion and $3 billion a year in federal taxes.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., committee chairman, successfully urged upon his colleagues the wisdom of starting the three-year phase-out this year, as opposed to the original starting date of Jan. 1, 1975. The first step in the gradual elimination of the 22 per cent depletion allowance would drop it to 15 per cent, retroactive to last Jan. 1.

Change of venue granted

Highland County court gets kidnapping, extortion case

HILLSBORO — A case charging a young Washington C.H. man with kidnapping and extortion, which was declared a mistrial in Fayette County Common Pleas Court, will open Monday in Highland County Common Pleas Court in Hillsboro.

Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman granted a change of venue in the kidnapping and extortion trial of Jay D. Gordon, 21, Rt. 1, Washington C.H., and has moved the trial to Highland County Common Pleas Court.

THE JUDGE on June 26 sustained a motion for a mistrial which had been filed by Gordon's defense counsel, John C. Bryan, of Washington C.H., after it had been determined that the jurors had been exposed to news media coverage of the trial.

Eleven of the 12 jurors admitted that they had read coverage of the trial which appeared in the June 25 edition of The Record-Herald.

The judicial uproar began on June 25 during the trial of Gordon on the extortion and kidnapping charges. With the jury out, but press and spectators present, Judge Coffman ordered that a warrant be issued for the arrest of Jack L. Gordon, 20, younger brother of the defendant. The younger Gordon had been granted immunity from prosecution in the case to appear as a material witness, but instead he disappeared.

Judge Coffman continued the case until the younger Gordon could be arrested, and then requested members of the media not to identify the material witness.

Ed Summers, 24, a reporter-photographer, was covering the case for The Record-Herald. He identified the witness as Gordon's brother in the June 25 edition and Judge Coffman cited him for contempt of court.

The article published by The Record-Herald in the June 25 edition also contained a detailed account of testimony from the alleged victim, John A. Whiteside, 21, Snowhill Road.

The hearing on the contempt charge lodged against Summers will be held at 2 p.m. Friday in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. Judge J. Donald Ratcliff, of Ross County Common Pleas Court, will hear the case.

IN ANOTHER development, following the mistrial in the kidnapping and extortion case, Judge Coffman imposed a gag order on all county law enforcement officers that forbids them "to take part in interviews for publicity relating to any matter criminal or civil which might ultimately reach the Common Pleas Court."

The judge also sent out letters to the county's 15 attorneys reminding them what they are allowed to release to the news media under their standards of professional ethics.

Dry weather damaging to hay crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although corn, soybeans and wheat will get the hardest looks when the Agriculture Department releases a new crop production report soon, the 1974 hay crop also is a big item.

Production already has been severely reduced by drought in the Southwest and dry weather in many other parts of the country. And with grain prices climbing again, livestock producers need all the normally cheaper forage they can get.

The department in July estimated the 1974 acreage of all types of hay this year at 60.5 million acres, down 3 per cent from last year. The first production estimate will be included in the general crop report on Aug. 12.

Meantime, there are signs that hay prices already have shot up as the result of poor weather. As of July 15, USDA reported this week, all types of baled hay averaged $48.20 per ton, compared with $47.70 in June. That was still down from $54 in May, however.

To make matters worse, a scarcity of baling wire and twine has caused prices for those items to soar. Last month, for example a 40-pound bale of twine averaged $27.10 nationally against $8.96 just a year earlier.

Illegal milk money tied to Humphrey campaigner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jack L. Chestnut, former campaign manager for Hubert H. Humphrey, has been named in a sworn statement as the man who set up an illegal $12,000 corporate payment for Humphrey's 1970 Senate campaign.

Barry Nova, an advertising executive who worked on the campaign, said in a sworn, notarized statement that Chestnut asked him to submit $12,000 worth of Humphrey advertising bills to the nation's largest dairy co-operative. The co-op, Associated Milk Producers Inc., has admitted paying the bills illegally from corporate funds.

Nova's statement is in the open files of the Senate Watergate Committee, along with a copy of a letter in which Chestnut requested the co-op's lobbyist, Bob A. Lilly, to pay the bills.

Also included are two cancelled corporate checks for $6,000 each and a statement that Lilly sent the checks to Chestnut for forwarding to the advertising firm.

Chestnut has invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify to the Senate committee about corporate payments to the Humphrey campaign in 1970 and 1972. Humphrey has denied knowledge of the corporate money.

Nova worked as a political advertising specialist for the now-bankrupt firm of Lennen & Newell, headquartered in New York.

He said in his statement that he advised the Humphrey campaign on preparation of advertising materials.

"Early in the campaign I received a telephone call from the Humphrey campaign manager, Jack Chestnut, who requested that Lennen & Newell submit its next regular monthly invoice to an organization he identified as the 'American Milk Producers,' rather than directly to the campaign headquarters."

Nova, of Greenwich, Conn., seems to have gotten the name of the co-op slightly mixed up. In any case, the bills were made out correctly to "Associated Milk Producers, Inc., c/o Bob A. Lilly." Copies of them also are in the files. Each bore the words, "Consulting fee for Minnesota."

The last of the bills was dated May 8. On May 12, Chestnut wrote Lilly: "Dear Bob, enclosed is the correct billing for Lennen & Newell, Inc. Please return the check to us and we will forward it to Lennen & Newell. Very truly yours, Jack L. Chestnut."

Lilly's lawyer, Anthony Nicholas of San Antonio, sent a statement quoting Lilly as saying that "in truth and in fact, the money was to go to Jack Chestnut for the Hubert H. Humphrey campaign at the time."

Farmers urged to seek U.S. disaster relief aid

By The Associated Press
State officials are urging Ohio farmers to push for disaster relief assistance—apparently the only relief in sight from an extended dry spell.

Despite weekend forecasts for showers and thundershowers, the National Weather Service said rainfall amounts may not be sufficient to alleviate drought conditions in some areas of the state.

Northwestern corn and soybean yields may be reduced one-third to one-half of what was predicted a few weeks ago, farmers in the area estimate.

Raymond R. Casey, Ohio Farm Bureau economist, said state corn and soybean farmers have lost about $300 million from their expected fall crops. He said that total could rise if it doesn't rain soon.

The crisis has prompted Gov. John J. Gilligan to prepare a request to the federal government to make state farmers eligible for low-interest loans through the Farmers Home Administration.

M. David Urmston, deputy state agriculture director, urged stricken farmers to press county disaster committees to ask for federal disaster assistance under the 1974 Disaster Relief Act.

Casey said the northwestern part of the state, without significant rainfall for some 10 weeks, is the heaviest grain-producing area in Ohio.

He said the area most likely beyond recovery extends from between Delaware and Marion almost all the way to Toledo. Casey said Ohio's corn and soybean crops are valued at $500 million each annually.

Memories of Canada journey still warm

By MARK THELMANN

The scrap metal and paper drives, the comb sales, the auction and the selling of parking meter-savings banks are all in the past now, along with the trip to White River, Ontario.

The money brought in from these fund raising events made it possible for 44 boys and adult leaders from Boy Scout Troop 112, sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Washington C.H. to go to Canada. The work was worth it - the memories, still warm.

The boys managed to raise $4,700 which enabled 22 of the hardest workers to go on the trip free. The others paid $7-$35 dollars out of their own pockets, based on how much they helped in the fund raising.

THE TRIP itself started at 4:15 a.m. June 21 and ended 10:30 a.m. July 1.

Transportation was provided by the troop bus and a station wagon, owned by Don Smith, which pulled a U-Haul trailer full of gear behind it.

Scoutmaster Bill Cales, who is also a specialist on the Washington C.H. Police Department, explained the first day's traveling took them through Toledo, into Michigan and onto Lansing, Michigan's capital. From there the boys got to see and ride over the Mackinac Bridge, the world's largest suspension bridge of five miles.

Then Canada! A check through customs at Sault Ste. Marie opened many drowsy-from-driving eyes and brought about the realization it wasn't a dream, but a real camping trip in the wilds of another country!

The bus and car then followed the northern shore of Lake Superior until a town called Wawa, 160 miles north of the Michigan-Canada line was reached. The group had originally planned to stay the night in a public park, but they had arrived too early and now decided to stay in a motel in Wawa.

After a good night's rest came a breakfast of 20 dozen eggs and 12 pounds of bacon in the picnic grounds outside the motel and then more driving into White River, Ontario.

White River is noted as being the coldest place in Canada and the 38 degree temperature the boys experienced upon arriving convinced them easily. However, when "coldest temperature" is mentioned, the 900 towns people are referring to the record low of 72 degrees below zero White River has attained.

Fishing licenses were purchased and then the town was toured by the group. After the tour, it was time again to set up camp - this time in the local campground which was equipped with diversions such as swingsets and teeter-totters, in case exercise was required while roughing it.

Unfortunately, the group got more than just exercise. One of the scouts, Dan Rife, 11, fell from a teeter-totter and broke his left arm. He was taken 58 miles to Marathon, Ontario, to a hospital which supplied him with a very depressing cast and a night alone in an unfamiliar white room.

Dan missed the plane flight which shuttled the other boys and the equipment, including 15 boats, 12 outboard motors and 187 gallons of gas into the wilds, but caught up with them the following day when he was released from the hospital.

Scoutmaster Cales explained there was an emergency fund which paid Dan's medical bills from the accident.

To backtrack a little: the day the boys caught the plane into the Canadian bush, it was rainy and cold, but upon arriving at their destination, the rain broke, the sun shone and the temperature rose to a pleasant 75 degrees.

Camp was established on a lake called "Danny," the size of Rocky Fork Lake, which the plane had taken them to, 15-20 miles out of White River. Northern Pike and Walleye provided a fish dinner every evening except the first and last. The boys camped a total of seven days and nights at their campsite, fishing with artificial lures and swimming, brushing up on some canoe training, earning merit badges and just generally having a fun time which will be well remembered forever.

The plane picked everyone and the equipment up Sunday after Dick Maddux, assistant scoutmaster, led the group in a church service. As the boys looked down from the air at the wilderness campsite which they had called "home" for a week, probably the most remembered experience was the bear they had not seen, but had left its tracks nearby the camp - near enough to cause the hairs on the back of one's neck to rise and near enough to stimulate mental images of how big and ferocious it must have been!

When asked after the trip, "what was the most exciting and unusual experience encountered on the trip," the boys listed many different things.

PROBABLY the most unusual was witnessed by Rick Montoya when he exclaimed, "seeing Mr. Smith in the outhouse!" Keith Hottinger added to this by listing one of the most exciting things as "locking Mr. Smith in the latrine!" Craig Maddux listed a grievance, "I missed home-cooked food," but no one else agreed with him. Randy Clark, evidently enjoying the freedom in the bush said, "We saw alot of streakers."

One thing everyone in the camping party of 44 shared as a comment was the dismay at leaving and the good time had by all, and of course, the anticipation of next year's trip.

Before the group departed, Canada treated them to a high of 91 degrees with her clear, blue skies and during the starry night, a low of 75. As the boys readied to depart, she bid good-bye with a sprinkling rain.

The group drove straight through on the homeward trip, stopping for meals when stomachs told them to. Most of the supplies had been exhausted by now and the restaurants were more than happy to receive them. Breakfast on the road ran $121.50!

Scoutmaster Cales hinted there may be a two-year project in the making which could take the boys all the way to Alaska! Save your scrap metal and newspapers.

Farm Bureau women's rally slated here

Patricia Leimbach, a Vermilion farm wife and author of "A Thread of Blue Denim," will be the featured speaker at the Southwest Ohio Farm Bureau Federation Women's Rally Sept. 24 in Washington C. H.

The theme of the rally is "The Changing World of Blue Denim." Jean Werts, Farm Bureau director of women's activities said, "We'd like as many Farm Bureau women as possible to attend and bring a non-Farm Bureau friend."

At the rally there will be a denim style show and a musical program by the Highland County Senior Citizens kitchen band. A slide program concerning Farm Bureau women's committee achievements during the year will be presented.

It will be in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds starting at 9:30 a.m.

Sire evaluation looms essential for improvement

It takes time and effort to set up a breeding program in a dairy herd, and it takes about three years to realize results. Sire evaluation, along with other production traits, is essential for continued genetic improvement, says Wallace Taylor, Extension dairyman at Ohio State University.

Ohio's 78,000 cows on official test averaging 12,654 pounds of milk and 484 pounds of butterfat for the testing year ending April 30, Taylor says. Because of wet weather and poor crops in the 1973 growing season, production levels dropped 288 pounds of milk and 15 pounds of butterfat this year from last, he explains. Despite setbacks of this type, which the dairyman cannot control, herd owners can continue to upgrade their herds on a continuing basis.

USDA sire summaries are computed three times each year — January, May and September. Lactation records sent into USDA from all the 13 DHIA processing centers in the U.S. are used.

Grape-wine industry scholarship is set

Ohio State University has established a scholarship program for students interested in careers in the grape-wine industry.

Through the George F. Lonz Foundation fund for viticulture and enology, qualified students may receive assistance in pursuing courses related to grape and wine production, according to H.A. Rollins, Jr., chairman, Department of Horticulture, Ohio State University.

Blackbird control program outlined by ag department

Actual bird damage to standing field corn in Ohio has been over $750,000 a year for the past four years. Most of this devastation has been caused by large flocks of red-winged blackbirds converging on specific fields.

Gene R. Abercrombie, director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, has recommended that farmers experiencing blackbird damage in the past years should investigate applications of Avitrol 200 to prevent further losses. Farmers who see large flocks of blackbirds in their area should be aware of how to become involved in the program.

In cooperation with the U.S. Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service, the Ohio Department of Agriculture is recommending the Avitrol program as the quickest and safest way to scare off the blackbird population, while doing little or no harm to other bird and animal species.

Abercrombie stated that Avitrol-treated cracked corn should be applied to standing corn at a rate of one pound per acre (based on the total area), beginning while the corn is in the

Drought help applications set

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Applications for federal assistance for drought-stricken farmers in Ohio were expected to be on the governor's desk sometime today, gubernatorial news secretary Robert Tenenbaum said.

The applications were being processed by state Agriculture Director Gene R. Abercrombie.

The state will ask the federal government to make Ohio farmers eligible for low-interest loans through the Farmers Home Administration in order to recoup monetary losses as a result of a lack of rain during the growing season.

Cow betters Mother Nature

DAYTON — The cattle industry is improving on Mother Nature.

Normally a cow gives birth to a single calf. Twins are a rarity. Triplets, hardly ever.

On the Schearbrook Ranch near Dayton, eight three-quarter Chianina calves are romping around. What's so newsworthy about this? All eight have the same mother.

The improvement on Mother Nature is known as ova transfer.

The mother or donor cow, owned by Schearbrook, is a 30-month-old half blood Chianina, daughter of the famous Diaceto, who was bred to another full blood Chianina bull artificially when she was 20 months old.

The cow had been superovulated - the equivalent to a woman taking fertility pills.

Instead of having one fertilized egg as Mother Nature had intended, this cow had 11 fertilized eggs which were removed from her during an operation.

Nine of the 11 fertilized eggs were then transplanted into recipient cows whose function was to carry the calves until born.

The ova transfer was conducted at the Alberta Livestock Transplant, Ltd., Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

The donor cow was rebred 21 days later to another full blood Chianina bull and had a male calf on July 23 at the Schearbrook Ranch near Stevensville, TRANSFER CALVES — Here are seven of the "ova transfer" calves. They were three weeks of age at the time of the photo and all are three-quarter Chianina.

Mont.

One of the nine recipient cows rejected the transplanted egg after five months pregnancy. The eight calves - five male and three female - were born at the new veterinary clinic at Ohio State University.

The purpose of ova transfer is to have a genetically superior cow produce multiple fertilized eggs. These fertilized eggs are then removed and transplanted into less valuable females to be carried through pregnancy to birth.

This permits a superior cow to produce a number of valuable offspring a year, whereas normally she might have only one calf a year.

County Extension Agent

The 1974 Fayette County Fair is now history, and the 1975 event is still 51 weeks away, but already we have been hearing folks talk about how to make it bigger and better than this year's fair. It's been said many times during the past week that the 1974 Fayette County Fair was one of the best fairs held in recent years.

George Finley, fair secretary, says that paid attendance was over 22,000 for the 1974 event. That figure speaks well of the county wide support of the fair. Anytime a county of 26, or 27,000 people draws paid attendance of 22,000 at the county fair it's a prime indication of strong support for the fair.

IN ADDITION to fair attendance being tremendous - the Junior Fair sales were again a bit success. Over 280 hogs, 223 lambs, and 66 steers sold for over $53,000 above market price, a record for any county fair in the state. Businesses and individuals throughout the area who supported the sale are to be commended for their continuing support of the Junior Fair Sale. Many 4-H & FFA members will be making good use of the funds as they plan for college and other avenues of education.

THE FAYETTE County Cattlefeeders Annual Summer Round-up is set for Friday, Aug. 9, 6 p.m. at the Sam Marting farm. The annual event is planned for all area cattlemen, businessmen, and farmers. Tickets are available from cattlefeeder directors, the Chamber of Commerce office, or the Extension office.

A special addition to the Round-up this year will be the drawing for steaks and roasts from the Grand Champion Steer at the fair and donated the steer to the Cattlefeeders for the Round-up. The association will utilize the generous donation from Ora to pay for the 500 pounds of beef for the barbecue.

Beef show draws top exhibitors

Cattlemen exhibiting in the Buckeye Beef Show recently demonstrated they know how to pick the beef consumers prefer.

About 94 per cent of all the carcasses had yield grades of 1, 2, or 3, which is the kind of beef consumers want. Cattle in these yield grades have little fat and waste, and they have a high cutability of good lean, beef.

Thirty-two of the 46 carcasses in the single entry classes graded USDA choice, and the others graded high good, according to Vern Cahill, professor of animal science at Ohio State University and a show judge.

Grand champion of the carcass show was a 1270-pound crossbred Charolais-Angus exhibited by Eric Berschet, of South Charleston.

State Fair 50-year Club, Friday, Aug. 30.

Membership is voluntary and devoid of formalities, says Walter L. Bluck, president of the club. Bluck urges eligible persons to write the Ohio Expositions Commission, Columbus, Ohio 43211, before Aug. 19, enclosing $1 for each ticket needed. He points out that the cost is only half the regular rate of admission. Parking at the Arts and Crafts Building will be free. Car stickers will be furnished with tickets. Bluck says each request for tickets must be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Make checks payable to the Ohio Expositions Commission.

A lively, two-hour program of entertainment is in store for "Old Timers", beginning at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Arts and Crafts building. There will be a feature concert by the famous All-Ohio youth choir, parade of state fair queens, and an appearance by Gov. John J. Gilligan is planned.

Featured speaker is Earl McMunn, editor of the Ohio Farmer. McMunn will talk on "What About the Next Fifty Years." McMunn has been a state fair booster since his early youth as a Jersey calf club member in his native Guernsey County.

Attractive awards will be made to the longest married couple, and to the oldest gentleman and oldest lady present.

COURSE GRADUATES — Two Fayette County men recently attended the Veteran Sales Development course, sponsored by the American Feed Manufacturers Association, which was held at Stouffer's University Inn., Washington C.H., is pictured receiving the best participation award, and in the lower photo, Robert Staybrook, Rt. 1, New Holland, Landmark, Inc., receives the most enthusiastic award.

Opinion And Comment

Adjusting to energy prices

Federal Energy Administrator John C. Sawhill wore neither tie nor jacket when he appeared the other day on a nationally televised interview program. He thus dramatized the sound point that Americans have an individual obligation to help conserve the nation's energy supplies. One way to do this is to turn up air-cooling thermostats and compensate by dressing less formally.

There are other ways, among them those implicit in Sawhill's opinion that Americans will turn to "more energy-efficient cars and more energy-efficient appliances." He says he expects to see a rising percentage using small cars, and believes "the marketplace will force Detroit to go this route."

These views show the energy administrator's economy-oriented approach to energy conservation. He would rely less on overt controls than on economic pressures - rising utility prices, for example - which will induce consumers to use less fuel and electricity.

This approach may not suffice; controls may be needed to supplement the forces of supply and demand. But in any case there will be no escaping Sawhill's stricture that we cannot expect the new higher levels of energy prices to decline. High prices for fuel and power are here to stay, and we must adjust to them.

EDITOR, RECORD HERALD:

With dedication of the Peace Officers Training Academy over in Madison County, another milestone has been reached in the progress initiated by James A. Rhodes when he was Governor of Ohio. Earlier in July, the new Transportation and Research Center near Bellefontaine was also dedicated, another lasting reminder of the jobs-and-progress administration of Rhodes.

During the 1960's, state park lodges such as Burr Oak, Hueston Woods and Salt Fork went into operation. Although the present governor may attempt now to capitalize on the existence of such facilities, it was Gilligan who closed down the state parks in 1971. Remember?

Giving credit where credit is due, Ohio is still reaping benefits from the ambitious and innovative programs begun during the Rhodes tenure in office. Governor James A. Rhodes was good for Ohio, and Ohio needs him back again.

Unemployment rate rises slightly

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's unemployment rate showed little change from June to July, rising slightly from 5.2 to 5.3 per cent, the government reported today.

Unemployment has hovered between 5 per cent and 5.2 per cent since the beginning of the year. July's increase was not considered significant by the Labor Department.

The relative stability in the employment situation was good news for the Nixon administration which had predicted increases in the jobless situation this summer.

The administration's chief economic coordinator, Kenneth Rush, told Congress Monday that President Nixon's policies of economic restraint and budget cuts were likely to cause the unemployment rate to move up to between 5.5 per cent and 6 per cent by the year's end. Some private economists, among them Walter Heller, are predicting higher rates.

Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President's Kennedy and Johnson, predicted in testimony before Congress Thursday an unemployment rate of about seven per cent by next year.

"The old-time religion of skyhigh money costs and tight budgets will be relatively ineffectual in taming inflation, short of draconian budget slashes, tax boosts and dangerously tight money," Heller said.

The inflation rate now is about 11 per cent and Heller predicted it will be no lower than 7 per cent or 8 per cent by next winter.

Meanwhile, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., announced plans to work for Senate passage of a resolution to establish a bipartisan Emergency Task Force on the Economy to provide - within 30 days - a national blueprint for dealing with current economic programs.

"It would be my hope that Congress would unite in support of a nonpartisan effort to carry out such measures as the task force may propose," Eagleton said.

Heller said, "There is no quick fix for inflation in 1974 and perhaps not in 1975, 1976, and 1977."

He said the nation can look for some subsidizing in the inflation rate as the prices of fuel, raw materials and food taper off and as the price boom caused by the ending of controls runs out of steam.

"But get-ahead price increases and catch-up wage increases are translating a lot of the one-shot food-fuel-commodity inflation into a new price-wage spiral," Heller said.

Dear Abby:

Basketball and backrubs make her easy to love

DEAR ABBY: Recently I met a guy who says he loves me. When I ask him why, he says it's because I have a pair of pro basketball season tickets and can pilot an airplane to take us to out-of-town games. He says it's also because I give fabulous backrubs.

I care for him very much, but am wondering if this relationship can last. Strange as this seems, it's true.

UP IN THE AIR

DEAR UP: You sound easy to love. The relationship should last as long as you can get those pro basketball tickets, can fly him to out-of-town games, and provide him with backrubs.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 22-year-old sister who has been married a year and has a small baby. Her husband is a professional shoplifter. He says he's been in the business for 20 years. He rips off everything from a package of cigarettes to an $8,000 houseboat. He brags about it. She has a two-carat diamond and a houseful of furniture which he obtained through shoplifting. It's unbelievable what this man can pick up.

I am worried about my sister. She lives in another state. When I saw her last I told her she was foolish to live with a man who might be sent to prison. She just laughed and said he is too smart to get caught, and besides all he could get is a $100 fine.

Is she mentally sick? I am 28, married to a good man and have a fine family, and I am worried. Is there anything I can do?

BIG SISTER

DEAR SIS: Tell your sister that she is mistaken if she thinks all he can get is a $100 fine for grand larceny. And if she just "laughs" when you try to set her straight, she could be mentally sick.

DEAR ABBY: My fiancée is a divorced man. His "ex" calls him once a week without fail "to talk." They have no children, so I don't know what they talk about. (She is still unmarried.)

My fiancée says he doesn't mind her calling him because he appreciates knowing that she is okay.

He is very good to me, but these calls from his "ex" every week irritate me. I would like your opinion.

"R"

DEAR "R": In my opinion, your fiancée appears to be a very kind and considerate man. He's not married yet. If his "ex" continues to call him, and he continues to "not mind" after he's married to you write again, and I may have a different opinion.

The circular design of the platform is echoed in a bulletin board (not shown) that hangs on the wall behind it, providing a pinup spot for programs, report cards, record jackets, snapshots and other souvenirs youngsters want to show off.

Geronimo triggers 9-4 win over Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Playing with a cast of heavy hitters like John Bench, Pete Rose, Joe Morgan, and Tony Perez, it would be easy to overlook Cesar Geronimo as a vital member of the Cincinnati Reds' offense.

But Geronimo, better known for his fielding prowess in center field, doesn't like to lurk in the shadows, as the San Francisco Giants discovered in Friday night's 9-4 loss at Candlestick Park.

Geronimo belted a leadoff triple to trigger a four-run third and opened the four-run fourth with a homer. He boosted his batting average to a solid .320 as the red-hot Reds remained 5½ games back of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"What can I say?" asked the 26-year-old Geronimo. "Many people think of me as a defensive player, but I've always considered myself a pretty good hitter. I take pride in my fielding, but hitting is the big thing."

Geronimo's eighth triple and fifth home run both represented career season highs for the rangy Dominican. They also made it easy for Jack Billingham, 13-7, to notch the victory Friday night with relief help from Clay Carroll.

"Geronimo's hitting is a big bonus," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

"But the big thing he gives us is defense. He stopped them from scoring twice tonight. Cesar Cedeño is outstanding, but I'll take Geronimo for going and getting the ball."

The four-run third also featured run-scoring singles by Pete Rose and Ken Griffey and two errors and a pair of wild pitches by loser Ed Halicki, 1-4. Darrell Chaney capped the four-run fourth with a two-run double.

Gary Matthews paced the Giants' attack with a pair of doubles and a single. San Francisco hosted the Atlanta Braves today while the Reds were idle before playing a doubleheader at San Diego Sunday.

Manager Wes Westrum of the Giants bemoaned the sloppy play which contributed to five unearned Cincinnati runs. There were four physical errors, but it was the mental miscues which particularly irked the San Francisco skipper.

"You expect physical errors but the mental mistakes kill you," said Westrum, referring to a pair of plays in the third.

On one, second baseman Mike Phillips failed to cover first on a bunt, Halicki throwing wildly into right field for an error. On the other, a trapped Rose outraced catcher Dave Rader to the plate on a rundown when nobody covered home.

Marichal hurls win in return

By The Associated Press

"It's good to be back."

Juan Marichal, shunted to the disabled list with a back ailment for nearly two months, rejoined the living Friday night.

Reactivated earlier in the day, the 35-year-old right-hander with the distinctive high kick pitched six innings of solid relief, stopping Baltimore on two hits and leading the Boston Red Sox to a 7-5 victory over the Orioles.

It was the 241st career victory for Marichal, purchased by Boston during the winter after 14 years of meritorious service with the San Francisco Giants, and his first triumph since May 15.

"I feel good, very good," Marichal said.

Turnovers costly in South's defeat

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—The thrill of victory for winning Ohio All Star Coach Don Buccì was dulled by the thoughts of a game with Pennsylvania All Stars next week.

"It's a stacked deck we're facing in Hershey," said Buccì moments after he led the North to a 21-0 victory over the South Friday night in the Ohio high school football All Star contest.

"Something has to be done. Pennsylvania started out with 66 players. Now, they've still got 33 and they've already been practicing," said Buccì.

Meanwhile, the coach of the Ohio All Stars was trying to rummage up 33 players to take to Pennsylvania for practice this weekend.

"We'll take as many North players as possible, and then we'll have to get other kids locally (around Canton). It's a stacked deck," Buccì said.

Ohio has lost both previous encounters with Pennsylvania in the big 33.

One of the players Buccì will not have will be Ted Bell, the Ohio Class AAA Back of the Year, who scored twice against the south.

Bell, who played for Buccì on the state championship Youngstown Mooney team will bypass the game Aug. 10 to concentrate on workouts for his first Michigan State University year.

Bell scored on runs of four and three-yards before he was hurt just before halftime. The 6-foot, 180-pounder piled up 70 of the North's 91 ground yards in the first half.

Buccì said of Bell, who watched from the sidelines in the second half, "He just had the wind knocked out of him in the first half. He twisted his knee early in the game though."

"We wanted to run the football. We didn't want to put it in the air unless we had to," said Buccì, ironically a good passing quarterback from Youngstown East in his high school days. Buccì, in fact, played on the losing North team in the 1951 contest in Middletown.

"Sure, this gives me satisfaction," he said. "I felt the pressure tonight."

Neal Billman of Gahanna, the head South coach, blamed Rebel errors for a fourth straight South loss. The North leads the series 14-12-3.

All-Star aftermath

CANTON — As the South discovered in its 21-0 loss to the North in Fawcett Stadium, Friday evening, when the offensive unit spends nearly two-thirds of the time watching the game from the sidelines, the defense can not be counted upon to stop the opponents throughout the game.

For Washington Senior High's Garth Cox, who played in the entire contest at offensive right guard for the Rebels, and the remainder of the offensive unit, the bench was a familiar site. Taking advantage of the South's sporadic offensive attack, the Yankees recovered three of the South's six fumbles and intercepted two passes. Two of the fumbles and one of the pass interceptions led to all of the scoring for the North.

The South rarely penetrated into Yankee territory, as the North controlled the ball for over 31 minutes and ran a total of 57 offensive plays. The South had the ball for slightly over 16 minutes and ran 38 plays from scrimmage. The real difference in the game was in the first half when the North scored all of its points. The South had the ball for 6:21 and ran 17 offensive plays. The North had the ball for the remainder of the 24 minutes and engineered 35 plays.

Both of the North's touchdowns in the first period came following fumble recoveries. With 7:52, Yankee quarterback Brad Borden connected with Jeff Logan for a 35 yard touchdown aerial. With 3:55 to play in the opening stanza, Ted Bell scooted around right end for a four yard scoring scamper.

In the second frame, a pass interception by Tim Smith led to an eventual score for the North. Bell romped around left end for three yards to paydirt with 1:01 remaining in the half. The highlight of the drive was a 27 yard run by Bell when the North had second down and 23 yards to go for the first down.

Cox became the fifth Blue Lion to play in the annual classic. Lowell Harper played in 1969, Steve Ross and Jim Heath were members of the team in 1972 and Mike Domenico was the offensive captain for the South in 1973.

Cox was one of 13 future Ohio State Buckeyes to be picked for the contest. The six-foot five 245 pounder gave a respectable performance on blocking assignments throughout the course of the game. Two of the opponents Cox drew blocking chores on were future teammates at Ohio State, Aaron Brown, who is a six-foot two 220 pound linebacker, and Jim Savoca, a six-two 225 pound tackle. Cox also encountered Ephraim Hagins, a six-foot four 225 pound defensive end from Lorain Admiral King, on several occasions.

An estimated 12,000 football fans were on hand to watch the top 1974 seniors from around the state. The game was also televised throughout the state.

some additional expenditures to clean up the environment," the governor said.

Gilligan reiterated his belief that President Nixon should be impeached by the House promptly, leading to a Senate trial that could result in Nixon's removal from office.

"The federal government has been paralyzed for 18 months. It's going to stay paralyzed until we get a new president," the governor said.

Sampson urges Makarios not to return to Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Nikos Sampson, who was president of Cyprus for one stormy week, warns there would be civil war if Archbishop Makarios returns to the island republic.

"If Makarios loves his country he should not return," said Sampson, a former terrorist in the EOKA guerrilla movement formed in the 1950s to free the island from British rule.

Sampson became president when the Greek-led national guard overthrew President Makarios in a coup July 15. He was forced to resign after the Turkish invasion.

Chatting informally with newsmen, Sampson said the coup was masterminded by five Greek Cypriot army officers and "about 25" officers from Greece itself, who form the command structure of the Cypriot national guard. He claimed he had not been in touch with Athens "before, during or after the coup."

Sampson conceded the coup plotters did not expect their action to result in Turkish military intervention, saying: "After all, we did nothing against the Turks."

But despite the invasion he still maintained "the coup against Makarios was not a mistake, no matter what."

Asked if the new government of President Glafcos Clerides had taken any action against those behind the coup, Sampson shook his head.

Arson eyed as fire hits newspaper

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — Fire Chief Philmore Bowen has said Thursday's fire at The Whitesburg Mountain Eagle, the city's weekly newspaper, may have been set deliberately.

Bowen said Friday he believes the fire started on or near a sofa on the floor in a corner of the office of Tom Gish, the owner of the paper.

Firemen said earlier they believed faulty wiring caused the blaze, but Bowen noted that the wiring was in the ceiling of the office. His statement came as a state arson inspector began an inquiry into the fire, which heavily damaged the offices of the often-controversial weekly.

KIRKPATRICK FUNERAL HOME

Dear friends,

A 'visitation' or 'calling hours' during a funeral permit family and friends to gather in the presence of the viewable body to express their feelings about the deceased. When a survivor is by himself, he is alone with his grief. When grief is shared, it contributes most to the mental health of the bereaved.

The toy library opened Friday and is called TREES (Teaching Resources for Educating Exceptional Children).

"It's the first such library for the retarded in the state where you can go to take a toy out," said Ilene Tobey, supervisor of state health libraries who originated the library idea.

Trees got off the ground with $1,500 and the loan of a librarian from the state library. It is at the North Central Regional Center, an agency that helps the mentally retarded and their families.

The toy library operates like a traditional book library. Parents check out toys for home use and get an evaluation card to tell the center's instructors how the child liked the toy, how long he played with it and whether it required supervision.

The toys serve as teaching materials for retarded children, many of whom have great difficulty grasping and holding objects.

Paula Szabo, the center's director of educational services, said medical bills and other problems mean many "parents can't go out and buy every single toy" needed to help their retarded children.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan has endorsed a proposed two-year extension of a deadline Ohio's coal-burning industries otherwise face next year in the installation of air pollution control equipment.

"Technology just isn't ready," Gilligan told a news conference Friday. "We should not be requiring them to do something that is impossible."

Ohio's Environmental Protection Agency is expected to recommend to federal officials next month that a two-year delay be approved.

It would give a reprieve principally to Ohio's electrical utility industries which use readily available high sulfur coal to produce about 95 per cent of the state's electricity.

At the same time, Gilligan said he could foresee the possibility that the utilities might have to increase rates to purchase the pollution control equipment. One of the state's major producers, Ohio Power Co., already has requested a rate increase from the Ohio Public Utilities Commission.

"A cleaner environment is going to cost money. These additional devices are going to cost money. I believe, though, that a majority of Americans and Ohioans are ready to undertake

Miners may march on Statehouse

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — United Mine Workers of District 16 say they will decide Sunday afternoon whether to march on the statehouse in Columbus on Monday.

District 6 vice president Art Nelms said miners will also vote if they want to continue the strike that has kept about 2,200 miners idle since Thursday.

The wildcat walkout is a result of a year-long dispute between miners and the Bureau of Mines over a foreman who was the central figure in a West Virginia mine accident last year.

The miners contend that Denzil Carpenter, is still in a supervisory position because the bureau has not yet decided if it will revoke his foreman's license.

"They had a hearing on the case exactly one year ago and they still haven't handed down a definite decision," Nelms said. "We're not trying to deprive a man of a living. We just want to know if he could legally hold that position."

Early last August, some 5,000 miners walked off their jobs protesting Carpenter's position as foreman.

Heavy agenda awaits county school board

A heavy agenda awaits members of the Fayette County Board of education for the regular semi-monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Superintendent Guy M. Foster said the board is expected to adopt a resolution to proceed with placing the proposed school bond issue on the November ballot.

Board members will also be considering a number of personnel matters including the employment of seven teachers and a principal for Bloomingburg Elementary School, employment of custodians, teacher resignations and leave of absence requests, custodian retirements and the employment of personnel and teacher aides for the Title I

Hormones for Change of Life?

How do physicians feel about the use of hormones during a woman's change of life?

Dear Mrs. P.:
When the idea of using estrogen, or female sex hormone, was first introduced there was a great deal of discussion about its value.

Positions were taken by some doctors who firmly believed in its advantages. Others were just as forcefully against its use in women who were entering menopause, or "change of life."

Today, there is greater stabilization of thought about its advantages. However, hormones are never given indiscriminately to all people. It is for this reason that each woman who is in her pre-menopausal or menopausal phase is individually studied and evaluated before the estrogen is advised.

The general consensus is that female sex hormone is advantageous. It may reduce some of the unpleasant "flush" feelings so often associated with early change of life.

Extensive scientific studies have also shown that the absorption of calcium from the bones, known as "osteoporosis," a common condition among women of menopausal age, can be delayed by the use of estrogen hormone.

Each person must follow the dictates of her own physician.

My husband is 34-years-old. He is in good health except for a hacking cough. Whenever he smokes a cigarette he goes into an absolute spasm. I've learned to tolerate the cough, but can't this do damage to his heart?

Mrs. M. B., Ind.

Dear Mrs. B.:
It is undeniable that the tars and other ingredients in cigarettes are responsible for some cases of cancer of the lung, the larynx and for circulatory disturbances. This is unquestionable.

In your husband's case, the smoke itself acts as an irritant to the inner lining of the bronchial tube. The lungs explosively try to get rid of this irritating pollutant.

Persistent hacking over a long period of time must, indeed, put extra pressure on the heart. It would be unfair to terrify your husband by making him believe that a heart attack is inevitable. I am sure there must be more sensible ways of getting him to give up tobacco.

U.S. judge postpones Kent trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A federal judge has moved back two weeks the trial of eight former Ohio national guardsmen indicted in the shootings at Kent State University in 1970, court officials said Friday.

The trial, set to begin Sept. 30, was rescheduled for Oct. 15 by Chief U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. Battisti.

The judge reset a pretrial hearing in the case for Sept. 23. It had been scheduled for Sept. 9.

Battisti has not ruled on a motion by defense lawyers that the indictment be dismissed on grounds the charges are vague and based on unconstitutional statutes.

The government argued this week that the defense motion has no basis in law.

The eight were indicted March 29 under federal civil rights statutes. The indictments charge the guardsmen with assaulting and intimidating student demonstrators by firing weapons in the students' direction on May 4, 1970.

65-year-old woman absolved of guilt

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—A 65-year-old Cleveland woman, being questioned in the death and dismemberment of her husband 18 years ago, was released Friday after the prosecutor told the court he couldn't justify holding her longer.

Prosecutor John Corrigan made the statement in Common Pleas Court during a hearing on Mrs. Laura Hoyer's lawyer's request for a writ of habeas corpus.

Land conquered with ski poles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lost Sierra is an isolated corner of northeastern California that the '49ers penetrated for gold. In the beginning, most of them abandoned their diggings with the first heavy snowfall and retreated to the protection of the lowlands and valleys.

The Scandinavians jumping ship in San Francisco to join the gold rush taught them to make skis, and miners conquered a region that was snowbound for seven months of the year, with drifts as high as 40 feet.

Carpenters seeking large wage hikes

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's carpenters, trying to beat inflation, are going after contracts containing pay hikes of 12 to 14 per cent and maybe even more, building industry sources say.

And such wage settlements, they report, will mean another jump in the cost of new homes, since carpentry takes one of the biggest slices of all single-family homebuilding costs.

"We're concerned now," said Robert Sheehan, an official of the the National Association of Home Builders, at the annual convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. "There's no doubt wages are going higher. We see fears of inflation being reflected already in some of the settlements."

Union officials and workmen interviewed defend their wage scales, saying they have contributed relatively little to the inflationary pressure on homebuilding costs which have risen 40 per cent since 1969.

The high wages are justified, say union officials, by seasonal layoffs in the construction industry which are aggravated this year by a housing slump.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, told the 2,500 delegates at the convention's wrapup on Friday that unions must seek higher wages and cost-of-living escalators because of the the Nixon administration's failure to stop inflation.

The carpenters' brotherhood numbers about 850,000 in the United States and Canada.

Their hourly wages range from $5.25 in Charleston, S.C., to $12.35 in New York City. The average national wage in urban areas is $9.41.

More talks scheduled by Turks, Greeks

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Turkish and Greek military officers scheduled another meeting today to draw up cease-fire lines and U.N.-enforced buffer zones between the embattled armies on Cyprus.

British and United Nations officials sat in on the talks that began with a four-hour session Friday at a U.N. camp near Nicosia airport. No agreements were reached.

U.N. officials said Friday that the cease-fire line was mostly defined with the exception of a section in the contested western Kyrenia mountains.

The four parties are trying to implement a U.N. Security Council call for the 3,400 U.N. peacekeeping troops to move between the Greek Cypriot and Turkish forces.

Reports said Friday that battles were raging in the northwest of the island and that the Turks moved into four Greek Cypriot villages in the western Kyrenia range.

Associated Press Special Correspondent Peter Arnett reported from the battle zone that Turkish tanks and infantry launched a fierce attack on a Greek outpost on the peak of Mt. Kyparissovouno, which overlooks the four villages — Lapithos, Karavas, Larnaca and Agriadaki. The Greeks have two howitzers on the mountain within range of Turkish emplacements at Kyrenia.

The Turkish representative at the talks in Nicosia, Col. Nezihi Cakar, claimed that the fighting had ceased.

Greek Maj. Evangelos Tsolakis claimed Greek Cypriot forces "have been complying with the cease-fire agreement since July 22, the day the first truce was negotiated by the United Nations."

The Turks released a first batch of 120 Greek Cypriot prisoners Friday. The Geneva agreement stipulated the prisoner release should begin as soon as the cease-fire went into effect.

Sources in Ankara said Turkey plans to bring in fresh troops to replace the force that invaded Cyprus July 20. The Turks hold a 200-square-mile wedge between Nicosia and a 23-mile wide beachhead east and west of Kyrenia.

Middle East tensions rise

By The Associated Press
Israeli Defense Minister Shimon Peres warned again today of a possible war with the Arabs, especially Syria, which he claimed was "talking war, threatening war and preparing for war."

In Cairo, the newspaper Akhbar el Yom quoted Egypt's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Abdel Gamas, as saying plans are being implemented to confront the possibility of a resumption of the Middle East war.

The paper added that Egypt has

President close to resignation, Humphrey says

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey says he believes President Nixon is nearer to resigning the presidency than at any point in the Watergate scandal.

The former vice president, defeated by Nixon in the 1968 presidential race, said, "My own judgment now is that this (resignation) is much closer to being a reality than it ever was."

The Minnesota Democrat added that he believes Nixon's decision whether to resign or risk impeachment "greatly depends on what kind of a head count" he has for the House impeachment vote scheduled later this month.

Humphrey made his comments in an interview with the St. Paul Pioneer Press.
